RE "THE FLIRT"

This is the first sequence or rather an outline of it. I would have gone a bit further but am anxious to know if I am going along the line that you want.

I think a pretty good picture can be made out of "THE FLIRT" using the same ingredients as the original story, but adapting them in such a way that they will be interesting and up-to-date for today. There is so much story - so much plot and the characterisations are really so good that I don't believe I could write an original story that would be as good as this, and with your permission, I would like to treat it along lines that will follow the original story so far as the plot is concerned.
