

To Poets

---

O weavers of the golden weft,
O weave you carefully;
The many, many golden themes
That were and are to be.
O envy not the colored warp
And woof that is another's,
Nor yet despise the grayer hues
Which are your humbler brother's.
O weavers of the golden weft,
Weave you in holy dread—
The Spinner of the Golden Skein,
'Twas He gave you your thread.

—WINNIFRED REEVES.